MINUTE NUMBER APPROVAL : 1991/1

NEXT REVIEW DATE : MAY 2025

- At Hadfield Infant School we welcome our duties under the Equality Act 2010 which has three broad aims. In legal terms these are to do with eliminating discrimination, advancing equality of opportunity and fostering good relationships.

- Our school is committed to equality. Therefore we welcome the emphasis in the Ofsted framework on the importance of narrowing the gap in achievement which affect.

- Pupils from certain cultural and ethnic background
- Pupils who belong to low income families
- Pupils who have special educational needs
- Boys in some subjects and girls in certain other subjects

The bringing together of the Equality Act and narrowing the social and economic gaps is a feature of the Ofsted framework and inspections are primarily about how individual pupils benefit from their school.

- Hadfield Infant School aims to promote pupils' spiritual, moral, social and cultural development, with special emphasis on promoting equality, and diversity and eradicating prejudicial incidents for pupils and staff. Our school is committed to not only eliminating discrimination, but also increasing understanding and appreciation of diversity.
- We welcome our duty under the Education and Inspection Act 2006 to promote community cohesion and our duty under the Equality Act 2010 to foster good relationships between people of different backgrounds.
- We recognise that these duties reflect international human rights standards as expressed in the UN Convention on the Rights of the Child, the UN Convention on the Rights of People with Disabilities, and the Human Rights Act 1998.
- We recognise that some pupils need extra support to help them to achieve and be successful
- We recognise that people have different needs and we understand that treating people equally does not always involve treating all of them exactly the same.
- The Governing Body recognises their duty to have due regard to equality considerations whenever significant decisions or policies are being developed. They receive appropriate training. Their specific duties are to publish information to demonstrate how they are complying with Public Sector Equality Duty PSED and to prepare and publish equality objectives.
- Protected Characteristics.
The Equality Act offers protection to people with protected characteristics-Age, Disability, Gender Reassignment, Marriage and Civil Partnerships, Race, Religion and Belief, Sex, Sexual Orientation.

General Principles

Principle 1: All members of our school community are of equal value.

Application

We see all learners and potential learners, their parents and carers, as well as staff, are of equal value.

- whether or not they are disabled
- whatever their age
- whatever their race, colour, nationality, ethnicity, culture, national origin or national status
- whatever their gender and gender identity
- whatever their religious or non-religious affiliation or faith background
- whatever their sexual identity
- if they are pregnant or on maternity

All staff members are obliged to act in accordance with the school's various policies relating to equality.

We will guarantee that no redundancy is the result of direct or indirect prejudice. All disciplinary procedures are non-prejudicial, whether they result in warnings, dismissal, or any other disciplinary action.

Principle 2: We recognise and respect difference

Application

Treating people equally does not necessarily involve treating them all the same, our policies and procedures must take into account the kinds of barriers and disadvantage which people may face in relation to:

- disability, so that reasonable adjustments are made
- ethnicity, so that different cultural backgrounds and experiences of prejudice are recognised
- gender, so that the different needs and experiences of girls and boys, and men and women are recognised.
- religion, belief or faith background
- sexual identity

At Hadfield Infant School, our pupils are taught to be:

- understanding of others
- celebratory of cultural diversity
- inclusive

Principle 3: We foster positive attitudes and relationships and promote a shared sense of cohesion and belonging.

- showing respect for and good relations between boys and girls and women and men.

The school's employees will not:

The school's employees will:

- towards girls and boys, men and women, regardless of sexual orientation

Principle 9: Each year we formulate and publish specific and measurable objectives.

- Although improvements in provision are crucially important our equality objectives are expected to be outcome focused.
- They will be based on evidence and are likely to be about closing and narrowing gaps or fostering good relations.

The Curriculum

We keep each curriculum subject or area under review in order to ensure that teaching and learning reflect the 9 principles set out above. We are committed to having a fair and balanced curriculum. We believe that our pupils should be exposed to ideas and concepts that may challenge their understanding to help ensure that pupils become more accepting and inclusive of others. Challenging and controversial concepts will be delivered in a way that prevents discrimination, and instead promotes inclusive attitudes.

Ethos and organisation

We ensure that the 9 principles above apply to the full range of our policies and practices, including those that are concerned with:

- pupils' progress, attainment and achievement
- pupils' personal development, welfare and well-being
- teaching styles and strategies
- admissions and attendance
- staff recruitment, retention and professional development
- staff well-being, including care, guidance and support
- behaviour, discipline and exclusions
- working in partnership with parents, carers and guardians

Addressing prejudice and prejudice related bullying

The school is opposed to all forms of prejudice which stand in the way of fulfilling the legal duties:

- prejudice around disability and special educational needs
- prejudice around racism and xenophobia, including that which is directed towards religious groups and communities, and that which is directed against travellers, migrants, refugees and people seeking asylum
- prejudice reflecting sexism and homophobia

Hadfield Infants does not tolerate any form of prejudice related incident. Whether direct or indirect, we treat discrimination against all members of our school with the utmost severity. When an incident is reported, through a thorough reporting procedure, our school is devoted to ensuring appropriate action is taken and a resolution is put into place which is both fair and firm.

There is guidance in the Anti- Bullying and Child Protection Policies on how prejudice related incidents should be identified, assessed, recorded and dealt with. We take seriously our obligation to report regularly to the local authority on the numbers, types and seriousness of prejudice related incidents at our school and how they were dealt with.

- identify and challenge bias and stereotyping in the curriculum
- support students in their class for whom English is an additional language
- keep up-to-date with equalities legislation relevant to their work.

Information and resources

We ensure that the content of this policy is known to all staff and governors and, as appropriate, to all pupils and their parents and carers. All staff and governors have access to a selection of resources which discuss and explain concepts of equality, diversity and community cohesion.

Religious observance

We respect the religious beliefs and practice of all staff, pupils and parents, and comply with reasonable requests relating to religious observance and practice. We will also respect the right of parents to withdraw their children from classes which pose conflicts to their own beliefs
